The purpose of the Alaska Anthropological Association is to serve as a vehicle for maintaining communication among people interested in all branches of anthropology; to promote public awareness and education of anthropological activities and goals; to foster sympathetic appreciation of the past and present cultures of Alaskan peoples; to encourage Alaskan Natives to participate in the elucidation of their respective cultures; and to facilitate the dissemination of anthropological works in both technical and non-technical formats. Membership is open to any individual or organization indicating interest and concern for the discipline of anthropology. The Association holds its annual meeting during March or April of each year and generally publishes four newsletters each year.

The membership cycle begins each year on January 1. Annual membership dues include a subscription to the Alaska Journal of Anthropology. Dues are $40.00 for student members and $75.00 for regular members. Checks or money orders, in US dollars, should be made out to the Alaska Anthropological Association.

To become a member, send a membership form and payment to the Alaska Anthropological Association at P.O. Box 241686, Anchorage, Alaska 99524-1686, USA. Items for the newsletter may be sent to the editor, Pat McClenahan, at the above address, attention “Newsletter Editor,” or to plmcclenahan@gci.net.

2011 Meeting of the Alaska Anthropological Association – Preliminary Program

March 9 – 12, 2011, Westmark Fairbanks Hotel and Conference Center 813 Noble Street, 800-544-0970

Wednesday, March 9

Wednesday Morning and Afternoon

Yukon Room
Alaska Consortium of Zooarchaeologists Workshop
8:30 – 9:00 AM – Registration
9:00 AM – 12:00 PM – Morning Session

BoneSpeak: Paleopathology as a Zooarchaeological Tool for Faunal Analysis
Instructor: Dr. Sue Ware, Flatline Consulting and Research, Denver. This will be a half-day workshop with a Virtual and Tactile Lab. We will discuss various skeletal pathologies and injuries, tools and techniques employed by paleopathologists, diagnosis of disease and injury in faunal remains, and how paleopathology can enhance the work of the zooarchaeologist. If you have specimens that you would like examined, please bring them to the workshop for group discussion.

12:00 – 1:30 PM – Lunch (on your own)
1:30 – 4:30 PM – Afternoon Session

Brainstorming Session – Come and Share Your Knowledge!
Facilitator: Dr. Mike Etnier, Applied Osteology, Bellingham Dr. Etnier has teamed up with Dr. Jeanne Schaaf (NPS< Anchorage) to take a comprehensive look at how Alaskan archaeofaunas can inform on climate change – both in the past and into the future. To do that, they want to start by creating a database of archaeofaunal collections from SW Alaska, including the (approximate) locality of the site, dates, species composition, and perhaps most importantly, current location/s of the samples. This database will be hosted by www.Neotomadb.org, and will have on-line mapping capabilities to show distributions of various taxa for different cultural or climatic time periods. In addition to the database work, they are also submitting samples for isotopic and genetic analyses to examine the effects of climate change on marine ecosystems.

Poster Session (all day; presenters will be available 10:40 – 12:00 on Friday)
Charles E. Holmes (University of Alaska Fairbanks) A Late Holocene “House” at Swan Point Associated With Microblade Technology.
Edmund P. Gaines, Kate S. Yeske, and Whitney E. McLaren (Colorado State University, CEMML) Recent Archaeological Research at U.S. Army Training Lands in the Tanana Basin, Central Alaska
Ellen Carrlee (Conservator Alaska State Museum) Anna Marie Weiss (student, Queen’s University) Samantha Springer (Conservator, Cleveland Museum of Art) Adhesives Testing for Archaeological Artifact Labels
Jessica Peterson (Bureau of Land Management, University of Alaska Museum of the North) An Investigative Report of Two Protohistoric Features at XHP-115; Kinyikuskvik
Jordan Lewis (University of Alaska Fairbanks, Center for Alaska Native Health Research) Local Observations of Climate Change and Impacts on Subsistence Fisheries in Noatak, Alaska
Katie Moerlein and Courtney Carothers (University of Alaska Fairbanks, School of Fisheries and Ocean Sciences) An Experimental Approach to Shellfish Quantification from Kodiak Island
Molly Odell (University of Washington) Testing of the Nutuvukti Biface Cache (XSP-436) in the Reed River Valley
Elizabeth Kunibe (University of Alaska Fairbanks, Center for Cross Cultural Studies) Time, Climate Change and the Environment: 3 D Imaging to Record Material Culture
Phoebe J. Gilbert (University of Alaska Fairbanks), Christopher D. Ciancibelli, Jeffrey T. Rasic (National Park Service, UAMuseum of the North) Testing of the Nutuvukti Biface Cache (XSP-436) in the Reed River Valley
Carol Gelvin-Reymiller (University of Alaska Fairbanks), Joshua Reuther (University of Arizona), Matthew Wooller, Ben Gaglioti, Nancy Bigelow, David Klein (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Taphonomy of Faunal Assemblages from Early to Late Holocene Components at Quartz Lake Sites, Mid-Tanana Valley, Interior Alaska.

Gold Room West
Late Pleistocene/Early Holocene Archaeology in Northwest North America (part 1)
Session Chair: Ben A. Potter (University of Alaska Fairbanks) A number of recent investigations have yielded significant new data on colonization of the New World and adaptations to late glacial and early post-glacial environments. In some cases, these data provide fundamental new insights on lifeways of early Americans, particularly regarding settlement, chronology, and technological variability. This session will facilitate continued communication among researchers on these and other topics.
8:20 – John C. Blong (Center for the Study of the First Americans, Texas A&M University) Prehistoric Upland Use in the Alaska Range
8:40 – Joshua D. Reuther (University of Arizona), Ben A. Potter, and Carol Gelvin-Reymiller (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Landscape Evolution and Hunter-Gatherer Occupation of the Middle Tanana Valley

9:00 – Edmund P. Gaines, Kate S. Yeske, William C. Johnson, Scott J. Shirar & Whitney E. McLaren (Colorado State University, CEMML and UAMuseum of the North) Ancient Footsteps on the Frontier: The Early Hunter-Gatherer Occupation of the Tanana Flats, Eastern Beringia

9:20 – Stephan Heidenreich (University of Cologne) From Complicated Complexes to Appropriate Approaches - Diverse Settlement Systems in Changing Environments of Late Pleistocene Eastern Beringia

9:40 – Kathryn E. Krasinski (Fordham University) and Gary Haynes (University of Nevada, Reno) Who Dunnit? Identifying Actors from Modified Proboscidean Remains

10:00 – Break

10:20 – Bill Hedman (BLM Central Yukon Field Office), Jeff Rasic (UAMuseum of the North), Ian Buvit (Central Washington University), and Steven Kuehn (University of Illinois-Urbana Champaign) The Raven Bluff: A Fluted Point Site in the Western Arctic

10:40 – Angela M. Younie, Ted Goebel, and Michael R. Waters (Center for the Study of the First Americans, Texas A&M University) Update on Continuing Excavations at the Serpentine Hot Springs Site, BEN-192, Alaska: Site Context and Dating

11:00 – Heather Smith and Ted Goebel (Center for the Study of the First Americans, Texas A&M University) The Fluted Point Assemblage from Serpentine Hot Springs

11:20 – Kelly Graf and Angela Younie (Center for the Study of the First Americans, Texas A&M University) The Owl Ridge Site: Multiple Occupations of the Teklanika Valley at the Pleistocene-Holocene Boundary

11:40 – Samuel C. Coffman and Ben A. Potter (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Recent Excavations at Teklanika West: Cultural and Environmental Implications for the Upper Teklanika River Valley

Gold Room East

Oral Histories and Their Retellings
Session Chair: Karen Brewster (University of Alaska, Oral History Program) In the last fifty years, Oral History has emerged as an important research tool and resource for scholars and the public at large. By Oral History, we mean the recording, preserving, and interpreting of accounts preserved on tape and increasingly in web based formats. While there is a great deal to be explored in the mechanics of recording, preserving, and accessing Oral History, this session will focus instead on how professionals use the oral record to produce life histories and community based projects. The participants will explore the challenges of compiling, editing, and crafting retellings that reflect the voice and meanings imparted by the narrators who shared their stories.

8:20 – David Koester (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Oral Overtones and the Written Record -- A Kamchatkan Life History

8:40 – Karen H. Mager (University of Alaska Fairbanks, RAP) “I’d be foolish to tell you they were caribou”: Implications of reindeer-caribou interactions for how former reindeer herders talk about the animals today

9:00 – Wendy Girven (University of Alaska Southeast) The Listening Project: Building Community through Oral Storytelling

9:20 – Annette Freiburger (University of Alaska Fairbanks), title TBA

9:40 – Karen Brewster (University of Alaska, Oral History Program) Keepers of Memory: The Creation of Shared Memories in the Life History Process Gold Room Middle Maritime Archaeology in Alaska Today
Session Chair: Katherine Worthington (Texas A&M University) Alaskan-focused topics from maritime historical and archaeological, submerged cultural resource management and maritime artifact conservation topic areas will be presented and discussed.
8:20 – Ellen Carrlee (Conservator Alaska State Museum) Monica Shah (Conservator Anchorage Museum) Annette G.E. Smith (Juneau Diver and Historian) Dave McMahan (State Archaeologist) Resources for Maritime Artifact Conservation
8:40 – J. David McMahan (State Archaeologist / Deputy SHPO) Managing Maritime Heritage on the Last Frontier: Results of the 2010 Maritime Heritage Training Workshops in Anchorage and Juneau
9:00 – Mike Burwell (University of Alaska Anchorage) The Knik Landing Craft and the Old Barge in Seward: The Evolving Synergy of Alaska Shipwreck Identification
9:20 – John Bean (UAA Geomatics Department), Kate Worthington (Texas A&M, Nautical Archeology Program) and Dylan Hickey (UAA, Geomatics Department) Use of Ground-Based LIDAR to Map Archeological Sites
9:40 – Katherine Worthington (Texas A&M University) The JP Light: Interpreting the Remains of a Yukon River Steamer
10:00 – Break
10:20 – Lindsey Thomas, John Pollack, Valery Monahan, Wayne Lusardi (Texas A&M University) The A.J. Goddard: Construction Features and Artifacts of a Small Pre-fabricated Sternwheeler From the Klondike Gold Rush
10:40 – Kelly Monteleone and E. James Dixon (Maxwell Museum and Department of Anthropology, University of New Mexico) Preliminary underwater archaeological survey in the Alexander Archipelago

Gold Room East
Alaska Food Systems: Challenges and Opportunities
Session Chair: David Fazzino (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Food production and collection, distribution, and consumption in Alaska will be addressed. Papers will discuss issues of scale, place and community in food systems from subsistence and community-oriented approaches to market-oriented approaches. Fundamental questions including identity, food security, sustainability and justice in food systems will be considered.
10:20 – Courtney Carothers and Catherine Chambers (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Fish as food: from pallet to plate to palette
10:40 – Michael Nowak (Colorado College) Economic Stability in Uncertain Times: A Fishery Example
11:00 – Merben R Cebrian and John W Jangala (Bureau of Land Management, Glennallen Field Office) Demography of rural Alaskans and the implications to subsistence hunting in Unit 13
11:20 – Rachel Garcia and David Fazzino (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Constructions of Community in Community Supported Agriculture: Reflections of Producers and Consumers
11:40 – Michael Wendt, Beth Mikow, David Fazzino (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Cultivating Name Recognition: A Survey and Statistical Analysis of the Perceptions, Attitudes, and Knowledge of Community Supported Agriculture in Fairbanks, Based on Responses at the University of Alaska Fairbanks Campus
12:00 – Rob Bowman and David Fazzino (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Sociocultural and Geographical Approaches for Defining Food Fertile in Fairbanks, Alaska Gold Room Middle Recent innovations in computational methods for linguistic anthropology.
Chair: Mark A. Sicoli (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Recent advances in multimedia annotation and linguistic phylogenetics have increased the necessity for linguistic anthropologists to engage computational methods. This workshop details some laboratory methods in which the use of computers has increased the range of questions we can ask of our data and reduce the time needed to process and query data. The first half of the workshop will be dedicated to developments in multimedia annotation for discourse analysis that have increased the potential for coding, archiving, and querying multimodal data involving such aspects as speech, gesture, and gaze among multiple participants. The second half of the workshop will be dedicated to exploring some tools from bioinformatics applied to questions on phylogenies and networks in historical linguistics using typological data from Athabaskan languages.
11:00 – 12:00 - workshop

Lunch (12:00 – 2:00 PM)
On your own

Mini-Marathon
Organizer: Sam Coffman (University of Alaska Fairbanks)
Location near the Westmark Hotel, 1:30 PM

Thursday Afternoon Sessions

Continuity and Change in Alaska Native Identities: Beyond Essentialist Anthropology in the Far North

Session Chairs: Phyllis Fast and Kerry Feldman (University of Alaska Anchorage) Although anthropologists have abandoned the myth of cultural essences, nevertheless the experience of indigenous peoples still grapples with this issue in tribal law, education, language, literature, visual artwork, personal lives, and more. The widespread acceptance of the classification by the western community and by most Alaska Natives has created problems in individual circles. Education, health, law, and all of the western categories do not recognize the differences any more. In this session we will examine these issues anthropologically and personally in terms of the theoretical understandings as well as the applied challenges that they present in a variety of settings.

2:00 – Kerry Feldman & Rachel Mason (University of Alaska Anchorage, National Park Service) The Complexity of Alaska Native Cultural Hybridity Past and Present: The Quteckak Tribe of Seward, Alaska and their IRA Tribal Petition
2:40 – Jeane Breinig (University of Alaska Anchorage) Alaskan Haida Identities: Circulating Yahkwdâng - Respect

Papers in Honor of Ernest S. Burch, Jr. (part 1)

Session Chair: Kenneth L. Pratt (Bureau of Indian Affairs)
The field of northern anthropology lost its most renowned ethnologist with the unexpected death of Ernest S. (Tiger) Burch, Jr. in September 2010.
Tiger Burch was a passionate and meticulous researcher, an extremely productive and influential scholar, and a “professional” in the very best sense of the word.
These traits earned him the enduring respect of his northern colleagues, who were not limited to social scientists and also included numerous indigenous people.
The Alaska Anthropological Association formally recognized Tiger’s many accomplishments in 2003, when he received its “Professional Achievement Award.”
Focusing primarily on the traditional and early contact era Iñupiaq of Northwest Alaska, Burch employed an ethnohistorical methodology to explore important theoretical questions and produce significant contributions in a large number of subject areas.
The most notable of the latter included kinship and social organization, oral history, warfare and trade, culture contact and change, socio-territorial organization, patterns of indigenous land and resource use, population dynamics, and hunter-gatherer societies.
Appropriately, many of the papers assembled for this symposium touch one or more of these same subjects.
But, while its central objective is to honor our late friend and colleague, this symposium is also intended to convey the message that Tiger Burch’s scholarship will continue to shape discourse about northern indigenous peoples well into the future.

9:00 - Ken Pratt (Bureau of Indian Affairs ANCSA Office) Opening Remarks
9:05 - Igor Krupnik (Smithsonian Institution) The 50-Year Arctic Career of Tiger Burch: A Personal Ethnohistory, 1960-2010

What part of the past do we want to save for the future? Issues in the collection and curation of historic artifacts
Session Chairs: Andy Higgs, Molly Proue (Northern Land Use Research, Inc.), Jim Whitney (University of Alaska Museum of the North) Museums are running out of space. The importance of developing comprehensive standards for recording historic artifacts in the field and in inventories submitted with museum collections has become a recognized national concern. These standards are necessary to realize the maximum research potential for historic sites. We will begin with presentations focusing on a few specific historic artifact examples in terms of basic typology and broader research contexts. We will close with a roundtable discussion on recording, collecting, culling, and curating historic artifacts. Representatives from the BLM, the Office of History and Archaeology, the University of Alaska Museum of the North, and CRM will participate. Session attendees are invited to participate in the roundtable discussion.
8:40 – Andy Higgs (Northern Land Use Research, Inc.) and James Whitney (UAMuseum of the North) Introduction to Issues in Collection and Curation of Historic Artifacts
9:00 – Charles Adkins - The Cartridge Case: Field Guidelines, Analysis Possibilities

Tricks, Trophies, Traps and Travels: Comparative Approaches to Hunting in the North

Session Chairs: Loukas Barton & Patrick Plattet (University of Alaska Fairbanks)

Anthropological studies typically approach hunting with regards to subsistence. This session seeks to nuance this view and to explore how hunting can also be seen as a means through which people negotiate values, relate to the past, imagine the future, and fashion changing identities. In a comparative and multidisciplinary perspective, participants will address many forms of hunting in the North through a broad range of topics and questions, such as: the politics of hunting (how is hunting regulated, and by whom?); discourses about legitimacy and authority (what makes a “good” hunter?); hunting as performance (symbolic, artistic, relational, etc.); hunting ritual and knowledge as cultural resources; and the hunter as a monitor of ecological change.

8:40 – Loukas Barton & Patrick Plattet (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Introductory Notes
9:00 – Joel Ataat' Forbes (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Hunting as an Art Form and Connecting to Native Dance
9:20 – Hiroko Ikuta (University of Aberdeen) Embodied Knowledge, Relations with the Environment, and Political Negotiation: St. Lawrence Island Yupik and Iñupiaq Dance in Alaska
9:40 – David Koester (University of Alaska Fairbanks) and Liivo Niglas (University of Tartu) Sable Hunting by Net – Filming a Past Practice in Kamchatka
10:00 – Break
10:20 – Oxana Yashchenko and Sveta Yamin-Pasternak (University of Alaska Fairbanks) Between the Catch and the Payday: Living and Working as a Marine Mammal Hunter in the post-Soviet North

Presenters: Each presentation will be within a 20-minute time slot. Bring a copy of your presentation on a CD or jump drive, and provide to the session organizer before your session.
The Alaska Consortium of Zooarchaeologists
12th Annual Workshop
Wednesday, March 9, 2011
Fairbanks

DOUBLE FEATURE!!

MORNING SESSION:
BoneSpeak: Paleopathology as a Zooarchaeological Tool for Faunal Analysis
Instructor: Dr. Sue Ware, Flattline Consulting and Research, Denver

This will be a half-day workshop with a Virtual and Tactile Lab. We will discuss various skeletal pathologies and injuries, tools and techniques employed by paleopathologists, diagnosis of disease and injury in faunal remains, and how paleopathology can enhance the work of the zooarchaeologist. If you have specimens that you would like examined, please bring them to the workshop for group discussion.

AFTERNOON SESSION:
Brainstorming Session - Corne and Share Your Knowledge!
Facilitator: Dr. Mike Etner, Applied Osteology, Bellingham

Dr. Etner has teamed up with Dr. Jeanne Schaaf (NPS, Anchorage) to take a comprehensive look at how Alaskan archaeofaunas can inform on climate change—both in the past and into the future. To do that, they want to start by creating a database of archaeofaunal collections from SW Alaska, including the (approximate) locality of the site, dates, species composition and, perhaps most importantly, current location/s of samples. This database will be hosted by www.Neotomadb.org, and will have on-line mapping capabilities to show distributions of various taxa for different cultural or climatic time periods. In addition to the database work, they are also submitting samples for isotopic and genetic analyses to examine the effects of climate change on the marine ecosystem.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS OF INTEREST
Richard Stern, Northern Land Use Research

The purpose of this column is to bring recent publications in the field of Alaska anthropology to the attention of Newsletter readers. Alaska anthropology is defined broadly to include the traditional four field approach of anthropology subject matter. The Alaska region is similarly broadly defined to include Alaska, neighboring Canada, the Northwest Coast, Siberia, and... more generally, the circumpolar North. Publications include published books, journal articles, web pages, unpublished reports (“grey literature”), or other information which may be of interest. Readers are urged to share publications which come to their attention with this column’s compiler. The electronic format of the aaa Newsletter allows for inexpensive dissemination of this information. My thanks to the many readers who have sent citations of interest to their colleagues. Please continue to submit them! Richard Stern (DStern8107@aol.com)

The 7th Congress, "Circumpolar Perspectives in Global Dialogue: Social Sciences Beyond the IPY," will be held in Akureyri, Iceland. The International Congress of the Arctic Social Sciences is held every three years.

Glaciers respond sensitively to climate change. Recent (Holocene) glacier fluctuations are a valuable proxy for terrestrial interglacial paleoclimate conditions. A main challenge for interpreting paleoclimate from past mountain glacier extents is distinguishing local and regional patterns from global signals.

Reconstructing Holocene glacier extents involves many disciplines including terrestrial and marine geology, geochronology and glaciology. Organizers hope to facilitate an inter-hemispheric comparison of glacier records including locations in the Tropics, European Alps, American Cordillera, Southern Alps of New Zealand, Himalaya and Polar Regions and to identify future research questions and directions. Master's of Science in Anthropology
Master's of Science in Archeology

Cutting-Edge Research, Personal Attention
The curriculum of the Master's of Science degree in Anthropology and the Master's of Science degree in Archeology at the University of Indianapolis is founded on anthropological and archeological theory and hands-on training, which students apply to their scientific research. The program offers exposure to cutting-edge technology and encourages students to be active members of the professional scientific community. It is intended for highly motivated and talented students who plan to become professional archaelogists and/or go on to doctoral study.

Tracks
- Bioarcheology: dental anthropology, bioarcheology
- Molecular Anthropology: skeletal DNA, population genetics
- Archeological Science: archeological method and theory, archeology of the Eastern Woodlands

Requirements
Students must complete 36 hours of coursework, be involved in field and lab work (including an archeology field school for the bioarcheology and archeological science students), and complete a research project that results in a manuscript submitted for publication in a peer-reviewed journal prior to graduation.

Facilities
- Indiana Prehistory Laboratory (houses osteological collections and dental anthropology lab and is only one of three labs in the world capable of performing dental texture analysis)
- Molecular Anthropology Laboratory (dedicated to the extraction and analysis of skeletal DNA)
- Material Culture Laboratory (primary lab supporting archeology field efforts in Indiana, Kentucky, and Georgia)

Current Research
Faculty and student research projects range from local to international. Local research focuses on Late Archaic lifeways, Spanish Mission period archeology, pioneer settlement of Indiana, organic tool technology, and early warfare and trophy taking. International projects include a global survey of dental texture analysis, skeletal DNA from nomadic Mongolian burials, and cut mark studies.

Primary Faculty
- Krista Latham, PhD, lathamke@uiindy.edu—Molecular Anthropology
- Christopher Moore PhD, moorect@uiindy.edu—Eastern Woodlands Archeology
- Gregory Reinhardt PhD, reinhardt@uiindy.edu—Arctic Archeology
- Christopher Schmidt, PhD, cshmldt@uiindy.edu—Dental Anthropology, Bioarcheology

Anne Ray Native Internships

The School for Advanced Research, Indian Arts Research Center (IARC) offers two nine-month internships to Native individuals who are recent graduates, current graduate students, or junior museum professionals interested in furthering their collections management experience and enhancing their intellectual capacity for contributing to the expanding field and discourse of museum studies. The internships include a $2,200 monthly stipend, housing, book allowance, travel to one professional conference, and reimbursable travel to and from SAR.

Established in 1978, the IARC houses a collection of over 12,000 items of Native art of the Southwest. The collection, which was originally established by the Pueblo Pottery Fund in 1922 (later evolving into the Indian Arts Fund), includes pottery, jewelry, textiles, works on paper and canvas, basketry, wood carvings, and drums. IARC also holds a small collection of archival photographs, documents, and film. The goal of IARC is to bridge the divide between art/creativity and research/scholarship by supporting initiatives and projects that illuminate the intersections of the social sciences, humanities, and arts. IARC supports research and scholarship in Native studies, art history, and creative expression. IARC accomplishes this by providing opportunities for artists to engage in uninterrupted creativity through artist fellowships; fostering dialogue among artists, researchers, scholars, and community members through special seminars and programs; nurturing future arts and museums professionals through experiential training; and promoting study and exploration of the IARC collection of Native arts.

The interns will devote their time to working on IARC programs, directed research and writing activities, and collections management and registration. In addition to daily duties specific requirements include presenting a research paper at the SAR Colloquium Series; attending a national conference; assisting in the coordination and facilitation of one IARC seminar or symposium; providing tours of the IARC collection; and working on outreach initiatives to Native communities. If selected for an internship, the intern must agree to participate in interviews, photo sessions, video recordings, and exit interviews to document the intern’s experience.
The deadline to apply is March 30. All application materials must be postmarked or time stamped by this date. There are no exceptions. The final candidates will be interviewed by phone, with notifications sent beginning in June. The internship period is September 1–May 31.

A completed application includes:

- Completed application form
- Cover letter expressing how the internship will help achieve your professional goals in a museum or academia
- Official transcript indicating bachelor’s degree earned and graduate school transcripts if applicable
- Current résumé (also include relevant training, public presentations, community service, published writing)
- Current writing sample, not to exceed 10 pages
- One letter of recommendation from a faculty member or former museum supervisor

The IARC prefers to receive applications via post mail. Application materials sent by email or fax will be accepted, provided that the transcript and letter of recommendation come by post mail. Supplementary materials submitted will not be considered or returned. Incomplete applications will not be reviewed.
