

Alaska Journal of Anthropology

Volume 21, Numbers 1&2

2023

ARTICLES

Cupules and Cut Lines: An Expanded View of Kodiak Alutiiq Petroglyphs

Amy F. Steffian, Molly E. Odell, and Patrick G. Saltonstall

A Dene Hunting Camp: The Recent Occupation at Swan Point, Alaska

Charles Holmes, Gerard M. Smith, and John Hemmeter

Use-Wear Analysis of Prehistoric Cobble Tools at Little Panguingue Creek, Alaska

Yan Axel Gómez Coutouly, Caroline Hamon, Angela K. Gore, Kelly E. Graf, and Ted Goebel

Human Occupation of the Upper Yukon River Canyon: Expanding the Geography of Dated Components in the Alaska-Yukon Borderlands

Robert A. Sattler, Christian Thomas, Norman A. Easton, Angela M. Younie, Thomas E. Gillispie, and Jeffrey T. Rasic

The Gallagher Flint Station: An Overlooked Ancient Record of Human Occupation in Arctic Alaska

Dale C. Slaughter, Michael L. Kunz, and John P. Cook

REPORTS

Considering Ancestral Unangam Selection Biases in Transdisciplinary Research

Caroline Funk, Heather Lackos, Nicole Misarti, Lorrie Rea, and Julie Avery

RESEARCH NOTES

North American Arctic “The Ones Living Far Away—Exploring the Meaning and Marks of the 5th Thule Expedition”: A Danish Educational Documentary about the 5th Thule Expedition

Daria M. Schwalbe, Amalie Josefine Jeppesen, and Bent Nielsen

Alaska Wintertime Travel, Access, and Changing Snow and Ice Conditions in Alaska’s Copper River Basin

Barbara A. Cellarius

Hunter’s Cache Found at the Lost Jim Lava Flow, Imuruk Lake, Alaska

Benjamin M. Jones, Jeffrey T. Rasic, Benjamin V. Gaglioti, Guido Grosse, Bob Gal, and Jeanne Schaaf

BOOK REVIEWS

The Gwich’in Climate Report

Reviewed by Chris M. Cannon

The Upper Tanana Dene: People of This Land

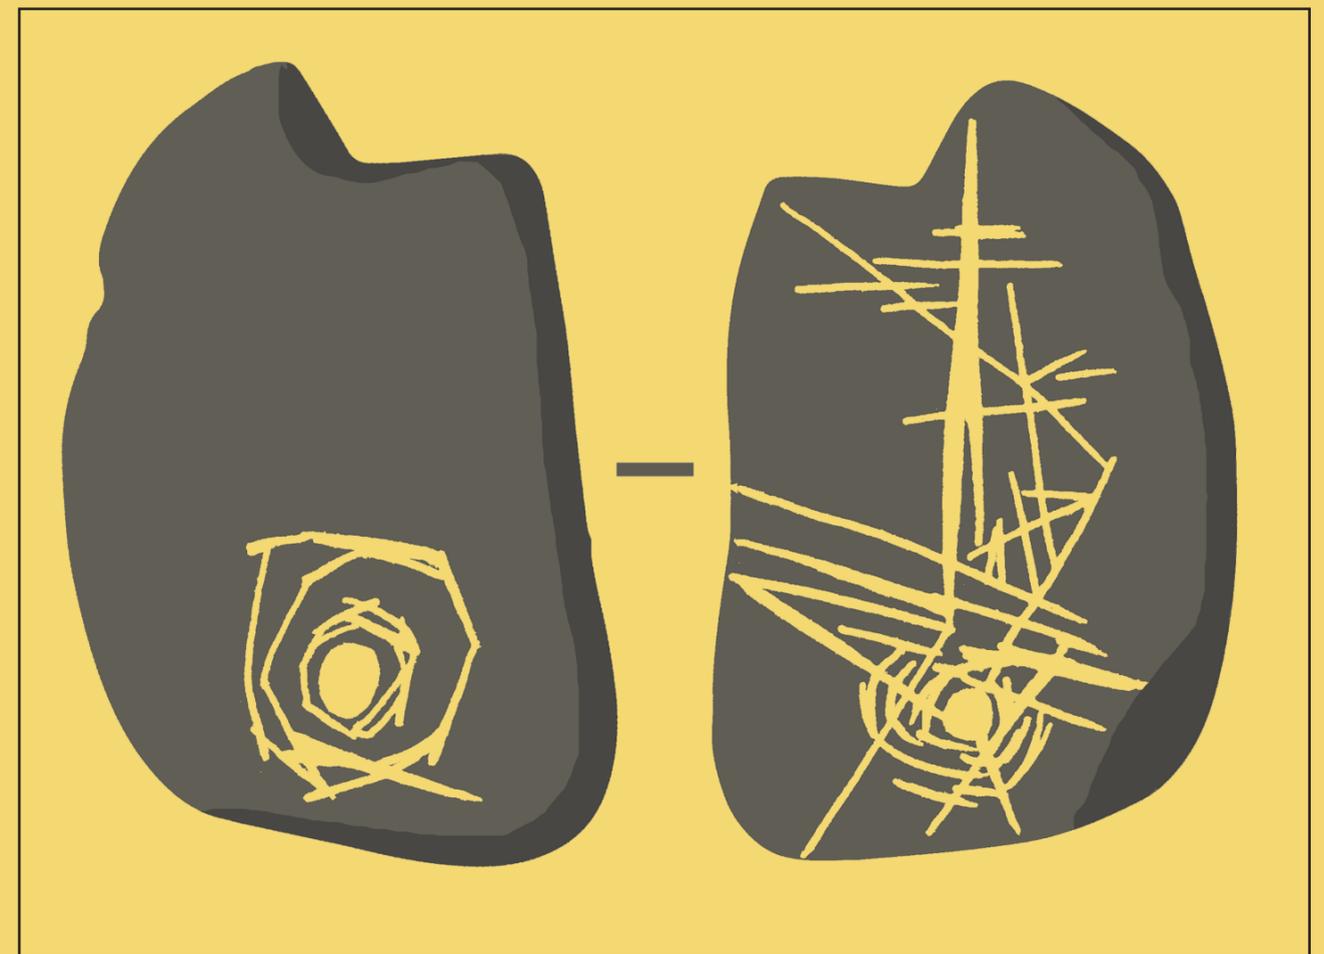

Reviewed by James Kari

Cover: Stone with circles and slashes incised on both faces around a carved hole. Outlet site, KOD-561, Buskin River, U.S. Coast Guard Collection, AM327:8544. Stone is 7.5 cm long. Illustration by Eric Carlson from a drawing by April Laktonen Counciller.

Volume 21, Numbers 1&2
2023

Alaska Journal of Anthropology

Alaska Journal of Anthropology, Volume 21, Numbers 1&2

2023